B.A. IN HISTORY

Overview

A major in history consists of at least 30 credit hours in history with a grade of C- or better in each course, and with a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0 in history courses. These credit hours may include history courses taken for general distribution requirements, and must include at least 18 credit hours at the 300 level or above, of which at least 6 credit hours must be taken in the form of 500-level seminars. (HIS 599 does not count). All courses for majors will be selected by students in consultation with advisors designated by the department.

Credit hours from other institutions may be counted toward the major or minor, and to general distribution requirements as appropriate, but departmental approval is required in each case. Students who complete the Advanced Placement course in United States, European, or World history and pass the examination with a grade of 4 or 5 may receive credit in the appropriate history courses. Students who complete the International Baccalaureate program and pass the higher level history examination with a grade of 6 or higher will receive 3 credit hours in the appropriate entry-level history course. (However, in some cases students will only receive elective credit hours). At least 18 credit hours of the major and at least 9 credit hours of the minor must be completed at the University of Miami.

The department offers a variety of study abroad options with credit toward the major or minor.

Mission

The three principle objectives of coursework in history are to provide students with the (a) context in which issues and events, people and places, laws and society, progress and prosperity, problems and solutions are given root and foundation; give them the (b) critical reasoning skills for effective comprehension; and (c) supplement their cognitive knowledge base which is essential for career placement in the information-driven twenty-first century world of ideas, be that in education, business, technology, public or private sector employment or community service. Thus history with its study of how people function in complex social and cultural environments that change over time is an ideal discipline for honing the skills necessary to think clearly and critically whether that be applied as a practicing historian or a lawyer, physician, politician, governmental employee, private entrepreneur or simply a thoughtful, cultured, engaged member of society.

Goals

The program objectives are:

- to prepare students for employment in careers related to education or in careers which value critical reasoning; and
- · to prepare them for admission to graduate or professional schools.

Student Learning Outcomes

- · Students will demonstrate they think critically and analytically and construct persuasive arguments differentiating fact from conjecture.
- Students will demonstrate a breadth of understanding of historical information and narratives.
- · Students must demonstrate an understanding of historical scholarship.
