B.S.C. ADVERTISING

Overview

Students majoring in Advertising choose between two distinct paths: Advertising Management or Creative Advertising. Students who choose the Advertising Management track will learn about the business side of Advertising, which focuses on consumer behavior, research, media planning, account planning, and account management. Graduates of this track will be prepared for jobs in areas such as account planning, account management, consumer research, media planning, and advertising entrepreneurship. Students who choose the Creative Advertising track will take courses in graphic design, copywriting, and art direction and will graduate with a marketable portfolio of creative work. Graduates of this track will be prepared for jobs as copywriters, graphic designers, or art directors.

Our Advertising program has ties to the American Advertising Federation (AAF), maintains a student chapter of AAF, and also participates in the National Student Advertising Competition each year.

The Advertising Creative track can fulfill either the Arts & Humanities or the People & Society area of knowledge requirement. The Advertising Management track fulfills the People & Society area of knowledge requirement.

- Students must complete at least one course in which the entirety of the class has an international or intercultural focus. This course can come from within the student's major, minor, or as a general elective course toward the 120 credits needed to graduate. Sample classes include, but are not limited to: STC 350, STC 482, COS 343, and MKT 360. Study abroad can also fulfill this requirement, as can a foreign language course that is not the student's native language.
- * Electives outside the Advertising major (but within the School of Communication) must be approved by the Chair of Strategic Communication.
- * School of Communication students are required to complete a minimum of a minor (inside or outside of the school) in addition to their Communication major to graduate. For an optional 2nd major, please see your advisor.
- * School of Communication students must complete 6 credits of Written Communication Skills unless exempt based on SAT/ACT score or AP/IB exam, 3-6 credits of Mathematics, http://www.miami.edu/cognates/ and the Advanced Writing and Communication Skills Proficiency requirement.

Upper Level Elective Requirement

36 credits at the 300 level or higher are required for graduation. These credits may be earned from your major, minor and/or second major, and electives.

Mission

The mission of the advertising program is to introduce students to advertising theory, research, and client services to prepare them for an advertising career. The program prepares students to be critical thinkers, problem-solvers, and globally aware professionals. In addition, in preparation for the ever-evolving advertising industry, students can elect to study general advertising or concentrate their efforts by specializing in advertising management or creative advertising.

Goals

The advertising program aims to prepare students to be critical thinkers, problem-solvers, and globally aware professionals in an ever-changing and ever-evolving industry.

Student Learning Outcomes

- Students will be able to conduct primary and secondary research, analyze data, interpret the results, and communicate the results using statistical analysis and software for data analysis.
- Students will develop a budget and media plan to meet reach and frequency goals for a given client, meaning that they can identify the appropriate target audience(s) and reach them effectively with strategically selected media within a limited budget.
- Students will be able to create advertisements for a variety of media, applying appropriate design, art direction, and copy writing skills. Students will also be able to develop an effective creative strategy and campaign executions across multiple media to meet client objectives for campaign development.
